In Belgium, Feb. 1 (Delayed AP)—The Yankee sharpshooter is determined and stubborn—and were the attacking Nazis.

The enemy apparently was under orders to destroy at all costs an American anti-tank gun emplaced in front of a house defended by Second Infantry Division doughboys.

As one German soldier after another tried to storm the position, the Raymond Yannis, of Taylor, Pa., picked them off. Once three Germans almost reached the gun emplacement, Yannis leaped from a window and killed all three with a burst from his sub-machine gun.

"It was too bad for the Jerries they did not know that the gun had been knocked out by their own artillery a bit earlier," said Yannis.

Finish-Style Bath

Two artillerymen have built the first Finnish-style steam bath on the western front.

The soldiers—T-5 George Aari, of Iass, Mich., and Daniel R. Burton, of Tomahawk, Wis.—made it from scrap materials, the remains of a partly destroyed German house, and a layer of cobblestones which provides steam heat for the bathroom warmed by a coal fire in fuel runs held together by baling wire. The room can be heated easily to 40 degrees. The temperature is regulated by the amount of water poured on the hot stones.

Officers and men crowd to enjoy this front-line luxury bath, similar to several which Aari—called "The Inn" by his battery mates—constructed for north woods logging camps in civilian life.

"Rolling in snowbanks outside the bath is optional," grinned Aari, "and here aren't many gunners hardy enough to try that."

A Doughboy's Fist

They call First Sgt. Percy L. Imbody of Perkiomenville, Pa., "the doughboy with the million dollar fist."

It saved him from capture and enabled him to free another Second Division infantryman.

"During the night some Nazis infiltrated into our lines," said Capt. Joseph E. Skaggs of LaCrosse, Wis. At 5:30 a. m., Imbody heard an American voice shouting:

"Hold your fire! Hold your fire!"

The short, husky sergeant investigated and found the Germans moving forward and using a doughboy from his own outfit as a shield. Before he could give the alarm, another Nazi grabbed Imbody.

That was bad judgment. The doughboy swung his ham-sized right fist and smashed the enemy soldier full in the face. Jazed, the German reeled against a knocked-out tank and both Americans fled to safety.

16 Prisoners

Up along the Roer river front in Germany, Capt. William B. Whitney, of Waynesboro, Miss., an officer in Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th "Timberwolf" Infantry Division, used a map case with even more spectacular results. He took 16 prisoners.

Pfc. Albert Shaul watched the whole thing while engaged in a fight himself.

"I was firing at the Jerries when I noticed Capt. Whitney walking down a railroad track," he said. "There were Germans all around us and he did not have a gun—just a map case. I watched him wave that map case and take one prisoner."

"The next thing I saw was 15 Germans walking along the track. I was about to open fire when I saw Capt. Whitney with them. He had walked up to their dugout and the Jerries were so surprised they just piled out and gave up."

For a half-dozen similar acts of bravery, Whitney has been recommended for one of the highest medals of valor.

Increasing Pressure On Germans

GUY WOLF WINS SUIT AGAINST SCHOOL RULING

J. Guy Wolf, commercial teacher at the Gettysburg high school, today won his suit in the county courts to have the local school board pay him $1,800 per year in agreement with his contract rather than the $1,600 paid him under the new salary schedule of the board.

An opinion, handed down this morning by Judge W. C. Sheely, read as follows: "Pursuant to the agreement stipulated in the case stated, judgment is entered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for the difference between the salary of $1,800 a year due the plaintiff and the salary of $1,600 a year paid him from the beginning of the school year 1941-1942 to the present date; the amount of such judgment to be liquidated by the prothonotary after counsel for the plaintiff and counsel for the defendant have submitted a calculation of said amount within ten days of this date."

Wolf brought the action in assumption against the local school district "in case stated," in which both parties agreed to the facts presented in the brief given the court. It first was argued to the court two weeks ago.

New Schedule Tested

Wolf stated that he had a contract with the school district to teach in the high school at a salary of $1,800 per year. This admittedly was in excess of the minimum salary prescribed by the Edmunds act and subsequently the school district adopted a salary schedule under which teachers who did not have a college degree should be paid the minimum salary prescribed by the Edmunds act while teachers with a college degree would be paid a higher salary.

The plaintiff did not have the scholastic requirements to justify more than the minimum salary under the new schedule and, when the schedule was made effective, the school board passed a resolution reducing his salary from $1,800 per year to $1,600 per year.

"Not A General Adjustment"

Wolf maintained that he accepted each installment of salary under protest and had requested the school board to restore his former salary, but that it failed to take any action on his request.

The judge ruled that the board's action was not a general adjustment of salaries of all teachers, but was an adjustment of those salaries which did not conform to the salary schedule, and it applied to only three teachers of the entire staff. "As to each of them," the court ruled, "and as to the group, there was discrimination. x x x Consequently the reduction of plaintiff's salary was a 'demotion' within the meaning of the Teachers' Tenure Act."

The court ruled that "The question argued at length by the school district as to the propriety of the salary schedule is not at issue in this proceeding, nor do we think it properly could be."

In his conclusion, Judge Sheely said, "Section 3 of the Teachers' Tenure act may be said to be procedural and in all cases of demotions the teacher affected must be given the opportunity to be heard. In this case the plaintiff has had no opportunity to present his side of the case to the school board and as to him the reduction in salary was therefore unlawful."

DISCHARGE FILED

An honorable discharge from the United States Army was filed today at the office of the register and recorder by John E. Slaybaugh, Aspers R. 1.

Slaybaugh served as a corporal with a base service squadron of the 76th service group of the Army Air Forces. He was inducted March 6, last year, at New Cumberland. While in the service Slaybaugh was rated as an equipment operator. He was discharged Wednesday at the Separation Center at Fort Dix, New Jersey.

Col. Johnson Among Manchukuo Prisoners

Col. Edward H. Johnson, East Broadway, is listed among the 177 American prisoners of war who have been transferred by the Japanese from Formosa to Hosen Camp, Mukden, Manchukuo.

Colonel Johnson was taken prisoner by the Japs presumably when Corregidor fell on May 6, 1942.

The group included Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, who became commander in the Philippines after General MacArthur left for Australia. There were 17 generals in the group.

CAPT. REASER IS WOUNDED THIRD TIME IN BATTLE

Capt. Joseph Reaser, Gettysburg, has been wounded for the third time on the western front according to a War department telegram received Friday by his brother, the Rev. Paul L. Reaser, pastor of Atonement Lutheran church, Washington, D. C.

Capt. Reaser's latest wound was received in Belgium January 19 according to the telegram. He is now in a hospital somewhere in the European theater of operations.

The Gettysburg officer has been prominently mentioned in Associated Press dispatches by Hal Boyle during January.

In a dispatch of January 8 Boyle revealed that Capt. Reaser lost a chance at a 30-day leave in the United States when he cut a deck of cards with another officer after the commanding officer could not decide on which was to receive the leave. Transportation was available for but one man.

Colorful Battle Record

Both officers held nearly identical service records having served with the "Lost Battalion" at Mortain, France. Both had been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. Capt. Reaser's opponent cut the ace of spades to win the leave.

On January 16 another dispatch earned Reaser the title of "Indian Joe." Termed as one of the 30th Division's best company commanders, Capt. Reaser became a hero again when he led three men into a "vertical battle" to clean out a house defended by German paratroopers.

"Indian Joe" was slightly wounded in the arms when he led his men into the first floor of the house occupied by the Germans who were in the cellar. Capt. Reaser ordered his men to retire outside of the house and then set fire to the building. As the flames mounted Reaser and his men waited and as the Germans came out and ran for shelter his men easily shot them down.

EGG PRICES GO DOWN 3 CENTS

Prices showed very little change at the Farmers' market this morning and staple winter offerings were the chief stock in trade.

The regular marketmen were in attendance to fill about 10 stalls. There was a variety of fresh pork and pork products for early comers with prices unchanged under the ceiling regulations. Scrapple was 2 pounds for 35 cents.

Eggs took a drop on most stands to 45 cents a dozen for the large size. The price on the majority of the stalls last week was 48 cents a dozen. There was an abundance of sausage and most stands had mush to offer.

Cream was offered in quantity at 30 cents a pint. Apples, including Stayman, Stark's Delicious, Smokehouse and Black Twig varieties, were for sale at prices ranging from 60 to 90 cents a peck. One stand had the dried apples for 20 cents a pint box.

Other offerings included turnips at 10 cents a box; apple butter at 40 cents a quart; cookies at 18 cents a dozen; preserves in various kinds and sizes ranging from 15 to 25 cents a jar, and pies. Cider was selling for 55 cents a gallon.

LINCOLN SPOKE HERE TO FUTURE GENERATIONS JUDGE ASSERTS

"Lincoln was talking over the heads of the people in front of him when he delivered his Gettysburg Address, and was speaking to future generations," Judge W. C. Sheely declared in an address Friday night at the local Sons of Union Veterans post.

The president judge of the Adams county courts was the main speaker at the annual Lincoln birthday anniversary exercises sponsored by Gettysburg Camp No. 112, S. V. W. Preston Hull was chairman of the program. Other committee members were George P. Black, David A. Tawney, George W. Coshun and William L. Meals, Esq.

In his talk, Judge Sheely applied Lincoln's Gettysburg Address in the present World War situations. He described the address as containing 270 words, and 10 sentences. "It lasted but two and a half minutes," the judge said, "and was completed before the excitement and noise which followed Edward Everett's lengthy address had died down."

Speech Applies Today

"The newspapers were almost unanimous in criticizing the talk and one referred to the speech as 'silly remarks.'"

"Yet Lincoln was one of the greatest speakers the country ever had," the judge pointed out, "and without doubt he was talking over the heads of the people in front of him. He was speaking to future generations."

"All through the address are phrases which are applicable to the present situation. Lincoln said, 'Now we are engaged in a great civil war.' We need only to change that one word to world war to bring the whole address into the present time."

"We are engaged in a great world war," the judge continued, "to see whether this nation or any other nation dedicated to liberty and the proposition that all men are created equal can long endure."

SPECIAL SCOUT MEETING HELD

Troop 77, the Lions-Rotary club sponsored Boy Scout troop. Friday night played host to about 35 parents and friends at its meeting room in the basement of the Methodist church. Troop Bugler Teddy Hay sounded "first call" at 8 p. m. The patrol leaders formed their patrols and marched into the meeting room. The troop colors were brought in by Assistant Scoutmaster Roger P. Lewis and Star Scout Sydney Poppay as the bugler sounded "To the Colors."

Scout Poppay received patrol reports from John Rafensperger, leader of the Panther patrol; Dale Ferrar, leader of the Beaver patrol; and Donald Schultz, leader of the Wolf patrol. Scoutmaster Jack Cessna led the Scouts in the Scout Oath, the Scout Law, and the American's Creed, after which the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Methodist church, which donates the use of a meeting room for the troop, extended greetings on behalf of the church.

A "Review of Ranks" was then presented. This consisted of calling front the scouts, with their parents, one rank at a time, and explaining the work required to secure that rank after which the scouts reaffirmed their allegiance to scouting and to Troop 77.

Special Church Service

Patrol skits were then presented. Between skits Scoutmaster Cessna explained that the patrols themselves had prepared the skits as well as five window displays in various stores around center square for Scout Week. Two teams next competed in a quiz program on Scouting. Following this, a troop skit entitled "A Night in the Woods" was presented.

Refreshments were served to the scouts and their guests by Mrs. George D. March, assisted by Mrs. Mary G. Trout and Mrs. Sydney J. Poppay. During this part of the program, a one-year attendance pin was presented to Scout Fred March.

It was announced that the troop will attend in a body the special Scout service to be held at Christ (Please Turn to Page 2)

WILLIAM S. COOK NABBED BY COPS IN LARCENY CASE

William S. Cook, 26, East Railroad street, is being held in the county jail today on charges of larceny of an automobile and driving a car without the consent of the owner.

Cook was arrested Friday morning after an eventful night which included a police chase to Bonneauville and an automobile wreck.

According to Borough Officers Clark W. Staley and Charles W. Culp, Jr., who investigated, Cook first was noticed Friday morning about 3 o'clock as he attempted to get into the apartment of Mrs. Margaret T. Gibson, 22 York street. Mrs. Gibson's apartment is on the third floor of the Sachs' building.

Officers Give Chase

Mrs. Gibson phoned the borough police, and Cook then ran down the outside fire escape from the third floor to the ground, the officers said. Special Borough Police Officer Paul Anzengruber, who lives on the second floor of the apartment building, noticed Cook as he went down the fire escape, and also put in a call to Officer Culp, who was on duty at the time.

Cook apparently reached the ground and then went in a back door and up a stairway to the second floor of the building where Anzengruber began the chase. Cook ran to the front door and out on the street, the officers said, as Officer Culp approached the scene. Anzengruber was dressed only in his pajamas.

Wrecked Car and Fled

The fugitive then tried to get into a restaurant beside the Sachs apartments, but the building was closed. After that he ran east on York street and the officers saw him get into a car parked at the corner of York and Stratton streets.

The car was the property of Leroy Schriver, who lives at the corner, and had been parked there for the night. Cook started the automobile and drove east to Hanover street with the borough police car in pursuit. The chase extended to Bonneauville where Cook wrecked the Schriver car as he attempted to (Please Turn to Page 2)

Nazis Release Flood Waters On Roer; Reds Step Up Berlin Drive

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Russian troops today stepped up a drive to broaden their Berlin assault line along the northern Oder river, sweeping within 29 miles of Stettin, while enemy broadcasts announced an overwhelming Soviet outflanking drive had rolled 35 miles west of Breslau in Silesia.

The Russians also were reported by the Germans to have crossed the middle Oder 35 miles due east of Berlin and slashed the north-south communications between Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg, key cities in the Berlin defense force.

Enemy accounts described the big drive by Marshal Ivan G. Konev in Silesia as "gigantic" and said that it had reached the edge of Liegnitz, transportation and industrial center of 76,000 on the direct Berlin-Breslau communications lines. Liegnitz is 135 miles southeast of Berlin.

Encircling Nazis

Moscow dispatches said early today that Konev had stepped up his attacks along the Oder and was threatening to split the Germans defending Silesia and the southeastern roads to Berlin.

Breslau's Nazi garrison appeared in imminent danger to complete encirclement. The Russians simultaneously were threatening to break open the door into German Saxony in their drive on Liegnitz.

Other Russian troops in East Prussia surrounded the harbor city of Elbing with new drives to the Baltic that further sealed the fate of the remnants of perhaps 250,000 Germans originally trapped below Koenigsberg. The Moscow midnight supplement said Soviet units continued to advance along the shores of Frisches Haff, large lagoon between East Prussia and the Baltic.

Heavy Fighting

Berlin said the heaviest fighting was in Pomerania where the Nazis, aware that the capture of Stettin would set up a solid Berlin assault are along the Oder to below Frankfurt, were resisting desperately. The Soviet supplemental communique said 5,000 Germans were killed yesterday in the area.

The tempo of fighting along the middle Oder was undiminished. The Germans said the Russians built a bridgehead on the river's west bank of Lebus, five miles north of Frankfurt, south of Frankfurt other Soviet units were said to have cut communications lines between Fuerstenberg and Frankfurt and to be fighting in the outskirts of Damm, eastern suburb of Frankfurt.

Long, Bitter Fight Looms For Manila

Manila, Feb. 10 (AP)—Mined streets and Japanese mortars firing from the upper floors of office buildings slowed American infantrymen today in their stubbornly resisted drive through the heart of Manila toward dock areas south of the Pasig river.

It was clear the desperate and trapped Japanese would fight long and bitterly in defense of the flame-blackened Intramuros district, through which the Yanks must pass to reach the dock area from their amphibious Pasig river crossing.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his communique today described the fighting as "of the fiercest" and said the enemy was set for a "final stand."

Mines and Mortars

While the 11th Airborne Division pressed the southern side of a three-way trap, five battalions of the 148th and 129th Infantry Regiments of the 37th Division gained 2,000 yards from the Pasig as they headed into the strongly-defended Intramuros (walled city), a highly-congested commercial and residential area.

Reinforced concrete pillboxes and mines were hazards afoot; from the second floors of office buildings the Japanese poured down deadly mortar and machine-gun fire. The enemy used the mortars with good effect, and, of course, considerable damage to buildings.

(NBC Radio Reporter George Thomas Folster said the Japanese were shelling the entire area, even the north bank of the Pasig, with a "heavy, arresting fire.")

Fires still burned in three sections of Manila yesterday, but seemed to be diminishing.

Advance on Bataan

Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, 14th Corps commander, told Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson that the Japanese have wondrously devastated a considerable part of the heart of Manila with demolition charges.

The Japanese tried to land a large-load of reinforcement troops along the Tondo waterfront just north of the Pasig river mouth, but these were wiped out.

Caring for a large number of hungry civilians and liberated internees is not easing the Army's task of clearing Manila.

On Bataan, the 38th Division of the Eighth Army reached the town of Moron in a 10-mile drive down the west coast of the historic peninsula to which many Japanese are believed to have fled.

American bombers, striking widespread targets, heavily pounded Formosa communications and shipping. Fires were set off at Heito airbase.

GUY WOLF WINS SUIT AGAINST SCHOOL RULING

J. Guy Wolf, commercial teacher at the Gettysburg high school, today won his suit in the county courts to have the local school board pay him $1,800 per year in agreement with his contract rather than the $1,600 paid him under the new salary schedule of the board.

An opinion, handed down this morning by Judge W. C. This admittedly was in excess of the minimum salary prescribed by the Edmund's act and subsequently the school district adopted a salary schedule under which teachers who did not have a college degree should be paid the minimum salary prescribed by the Edmund's act while teachers with a college degree should be paid a higher salary.

The plaintiff did not have the scholastic requirements to justify more than the minimum salary under the new schedule and, when the schedule was made effective, the school board passed a resolution reducing his salary from $1,800 per year to $1,600 per year.

"Not A General Adjustment"

CAPT. REASER IS WOUNDED THIRD TIME IN BATTLE

Capt. Joseph Reaser, Gettysburg, has been wounded for the third time on the western front according to a War department telegram received Friday by his brother, the Rev. Paul L. Reaser, pastor of Atoneum Lutheran church, Washington, D. C.

Capt. Reaser's latest wound was received in Belgium January 19 according to the telegram. He is now in a hospital somewhere in the European theater of operations.

The Gettysburg officer has been prominently mentioned in Associated Press dispatches by Hal Boyle during January.

In a dispatch of January 8 Boyle revealed that Capt. Reaser lost a chance at a 30-day leave in the United States when he cut a deck of cards with another officer after the commanding officer could not decide on which to receive the leave. Transportation was available for but one man.

Cream was offered in quantity at 30 cents a pint. Apples, including Stayman, Stark's Delicious, Smokehouse and Black Twig varieties, were for sale at prices ranging from 60 to 90 cents a peck. One stand had the dried apples for 20 cents a pint box.

Other offerings included turnips at 10 cents a box; apple butter at 40 cents a quart; cookies at 18 cents a dozen; preserves in various kinds and sizes ranging from 15 to 25 cents a jar, and pies. Cider was selling for 55 cents a gallon.

SPECIAL SCOUT MEETING HELD

Troop 77, the Lions-Rotary club sponsored Boy Scout troop, Friday night played host to about 35 parents and friends at its meeting room in the basement of the Methodist church. Troop Bugler Teddy Hay sounded "first call" at 8 p. m. The patrol leaders formed their patrols and marched into the meeting room. The troop colors were brought in by Assistant Scoutmaster Roger P. Lewis and Star Scout Sydney Poppay as the bugler sounded "To the Colors."

Scout Poppay received patrol reports from John Raffensperger, leader of the Panther patrol; Dale Ferrar, leader of the Beaver patrol, and Donald Schultz, leader of the Wolf patrol. Scoutmaster Jack Cessna led the Scouts in the Scout Oath, the Scout Law, and the American's Creed, after which the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Methodist church, which donates the use of a meeting room for the troop, extended greetings on behalf of the church.

A "Review of Ranks" was then presented. This consisted of calling front the scouts, with their parents, one rank at a time, and explaining the work required to secure that rank after which the scouts reaffirmed their allegiance to scouting and to Troop 77.

Special Church Service

Patrol skits were then presented. Between skits Scoutmaster Cessna explained that the patrols themselves had prepared the skits as well as five window displays in various stores around center square for Scout Week. Two teams next competed in a quiz program on Scouting. Following this, a troop skit entitled "A Night in the Woods" was presented.

Refreshments were served to the scouts and their guests by Mrs. George D. March, assisted by Mrs. Mary G. Trout and Mrs. Sydney J. Poppay. During this part of the program, a one-year attendance pin was presented to Scout Fred March.

It was announced that the troop will attend in a body the special Scout service to be held at Christ Church (Please Turn to Page 2)

WILLIAM S. COOK NABBED BY COPS IN LARCENY CASE

William S. Cook, 26, East Railroad street, is being held in the county jail today on charges of larceny of an automobile and driving a car without the consent of the owner.

Cook was arrested Friday morning after an eventful night which included a police chase to Bonneauville and an automobile wreck.

According to Borough Officers Clark W. Staley and Charles W. Culp, Jr., who investigated, Cook first was noticed Friday morning about 3 o'clock as he attempted to get into the apartment of Mrs. Margaret T. Gibson, 22 York street. Mrs. Gibson's apartment is on the third floor of the Sachs' building.

Officers Givone the borough police, and Cook then ran down the outside fire escape from the third floor to the ground, the officers said. Special Borough Police Officer Paul Anzengruber, who lives on the second floor of the apartment building, noticed Cook as he went down the fire escape, and also put in a call to Officer Culp, who was on duty at the time.

Cook apparently reached the ground and then went in a back door and up a stairway to the second floor of the building where Anzengruber began the chase. Cook ran to the front door and out on the street, the officers said, as Officer Culp approached the scene. Anzengruber was dressed only in his pajamas.

Wrecked Car and Fled

The fugitive then tried to get into a restaurant beside the Sachs apartments, but the building was closed. After that he ran east on York street and the officers saw him get into a car parked at the corner of York and Stratton streets.

The car was the property of LeRoy Schriver, who lives at the corner, and had been parked there for the night. Cook started the automobile and drove east to Hanover street with the borough police car in pursuit. The chase extended to Bonneauville where Cook wrecked the Schriver car as he attempted to (Please Turn to Page 2)

Nazis Release Flood Waters On Roer; Reds Step Up Berlin Drive

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Russian troops today stepped up a drive to broaden their Berlin assault line along the northern Oder river, sweeping within 29 miles of Stettin, while enemy broadcasts announced an overwhelming Soviet outflanking drive had rolled 35 miles west of Breslau in Silesia.

The Russians also were reported by the Germans to have crossed the middle Oder 35 miles due east of Berlin and slashed the north-south communications between Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg, key cities in the Berlin defense fore-front.

Enemy accounts described the big drive by Marshal Ivan C. Konev in Silesia as "gigantic" and said that it had reached the edge of Liegnitz, transportation and industrial center of 76,000 on the direct Berlin-Breslau communications lines. Liegnitz is 135 miles southeast of Berlin.

Encircling Nazis

Moscow dispatches said early today that Konev had stepped up his attacks along the Oder and was threatening to split the Germans defending Silesia and the south-eastern roads to Berlin.

Breslau's Nazi garrison appeared in imminent danger to complete encirclement. The Russians simultaneously were threatening to break open the door into German Saxony in their drive on Liegnitz.

Other Russian troops in East Prussia surrounded the harbor city of Elbing with new drives to the Baltic that further sealed the fate of the remnants of perhaps 250,000 Germans originally trapped below Koenigsberg. The Moscow midnight supplement said Soviet units continued to advance along the shores of Frisches Haff, large lagoon between East Prussia and the Baltic.

Heavy Fighting

Berlin said the heaviest fighting was in Pomerania where the Nazis, aware that the capture of Stettin would set up a solid Berlin assault are along the Oder to below Frankfurt, were resisting desperately. The Soviet supplemental communique said 5,000 Germans were killed yesterday in the area.

The tempo of fighting along the middle Oder was undiminished. The Germans said the Russians built a bridgehead on the river's west bank of Lebus, five miles north of Frankfurt, south of Frankfurt other Soviet units were said to have cut communications lines between Fuerstenberg and Frankfurt and to be fighting in the outskirts of Damm, eastern suburb of Frankfurt.

Long, Bitter Fight Looms For Manila

Manila, Feb. 10 (AP)—Mined streets and Japanese mortars firing from the upper floors of office buildings slowed American infantrymen today in their stubbornly-resisted drive through the heart of Manila toward dock areas south of the Pasig river.

It was clear the desperate and trapped Japanese would fight long and bitterly in defense of the flame-blackened Intramuros district, through which the Yanks must pass to reach the dock area from their amphibious Pasig river crossing.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his communique today described the fighting as "of the fiercest" and said the enemy was set for a "final stand."

Mines and Mortars

While the 11th Airborne Division pressed the southern side of a three-way trap, five battalions of the 148th and 129th Infantry Regiments of the 37th Division gained 2,000 yards from the Pasig as they headed into the strongly-defended Intramuros (walled city), a highly-congested commercial and residential area.

Reinforced concrete pillboxes and mines were hazards around; from the second floors of office buildings the Japanese poured down deadly mortar and machine-gun fire. The enemy used the mortars with good effect, and, of course, considerable damage to buildings.

(NBC Radio Reporter George Thomas Folster said the Japanese were shelling the entire area, even the north bank of the Pasig, with a "heavy, arresting fire.")

Fires still burned in three sections of Manila yesterday, but seemed to be diminishing.

Advance on Bataan

Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, 14th Corps commander, told Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson that the Japanese have wantonly devastated a considerable part of the heart of Manila with demolition charges.

The Japanese tried to land a barge-load of reinforcement troops along the Tondo waterfront just north of the Pasig river mouth, but these were wiped out.

Caring for a large number of hungry civilians and liberated internees is not easing the Army's task of clearing Manila.

On Bataan, the 38th Division of the Eighth Army reached the town of Moron in a 10-mile drive down the west coast of the historic peninsula to which many Japanese are believed to have fled.

American bombers, striking widespread targets, heavily pounded Formosa communications and shipping. Fires were set off at Heito airdrome.

U. S. First and Ninth Army troops reached the Roer east of Aachen in November, but the menace of the wall of water which the Germans might send down the river prevented their crossing.

Clean Out Oberhoffen

Third Army troops made two fresh crossings of the Pruem river overnight, and in new advances of up to a mile reached points two to two-and-a-half miles northeast of Pruem, and a mile-and-three-quarters on the southwest.

Twenty more pillboxes were cleared in the Habscheid area southwest of Pruem, completing penetration of the main Siegfried belt and widening the breach to nine miles. Bridgeheads over the Our and Sure rivers in the Dasbourg, Wallendorf and Echterbach areas were built up against strong Nazi opposition.

WARNS AGAINST TOO OPTIMISTIC VIEWS ON WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

Success, too often breeds overconfidence, and this is a good time for us to look at the string we tied on our finger to remind us that the present gratifying Allied progress in Europe doesn't necessarily mean victory is just around the corner, or that we shall reach it by any royal route.

We ought to recognize this from the fierce resistance the Muscovites are encountering among the defenses of the Oder river, and from the hard going the western Allies are finding in the inhospitable water-logged winter terrain of the Rhineland. The Germans are giving ground, and their resources in manpower and material are far from sufficient to carry on indefinitely—but there's gloomy warfare ahead of us.

Yesterday this column discussed the possibility of the Big Three calling on the German people to desert Hitler. This naturally would involve the question of his hold on the public, and apropos of this I have here some striking observations by Veritas, British official military commentator.

"Calculated Policy"

Developing the thesis that the end won't be "either sudden or soon," Veritas points out that the plot to overthrow Hitler last summer provided Gestapo Chief Himmler—who now is in military control of the country—with the opportunity for which he had been waiting. Since then "terrible bloodbaths have been continuously in progress, and the victims have been drawn from all walks of life." He continues:

"How many thousands have been murdered may never be known. It has been learned from reliable sources that no less than thirty individuals are still being executed daily at Dortmund, and a comparable toll is evidently being taken in many other German cities. Even an anonymous denunciation to the effect that a person has expressed doubt as to the possibility of Germany's winning the war is sufficient to send the accused to the execution squads."

"It would be misunderstanding the situation to interpret this fearful massacre to the frantic efforts of a gang of desperados to terrorize a restive population on the verge of revolt. It is a calculated policy to eliminate every group and every individual who might be disposed to prefer surrender to accepting the devastation of the country as the price for a fight to the last man."

Majority Are Nazis

"There is a considerable and very trustworthy body of evidence to show that the great mass of the German people now agree with Nazi propaganda that, since the surrender and total defeat alike involve the destruction of Germany, it is better to go on fighting and so preserve the idea of National Socialism for the future. To call this a mood of desperation would be to convey the wrong idea; x x x it is a cold, unemotional and passive acceptance of the doctrine (which it is death to dispute) that there is no alternative but to go on to the bitter end."

That's what we are up against—and it means a fight. However, it also should be noted that there are clear signs of discontent among some sections of the population, not all of whom have swallowed Nazism. There also is a great, though at present more or less passive, menace to national morale in the some 12,000,000 foreign slaves within Germany. Once Berlin falls and Hitler's picked military forces have to abandon the northern part of the Reich we are likely to see a radical change in civilian attitude.

highly resolved that the world shall have a new birth of freedom."

"We can see," Judge Sheely said, "that although the conditions have changed, the thought is the same."

"We have resolved that we shall have a new government of the people, by the people and for the people," the speaker stated, "and that is what we must do. Today as we look over the world it is pretty much in darkness. The world is looking for a place where persons of all races, creeds and colors can live in harmony."

"Such a place is the United States if we will dedicate ourselves to the proposition that all men are created equal and continue to carry out our resolutions."

Among those present in the audience was Edward A. Trostle, who heard Lincoln give his address here. Mr. Trostle made a few remarks.

During the program, music was furnished by a special quartet under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade, supervisor of music in the town schools. Members of the group were Mrs. Shade, Miss Sara Jane Sheffer, W. Kenton Meals and Paul Reaver, Jr. The quartet sang "Tenting On the Old Camp Ground," by Kitzberger; "The American Hymn," Keller; "The Battle Cry of Freedom," Kout; "Stars of the Summer Night," by Woodbury, and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," by Lambert. Miss Sheffer sang solo parts in "The Battle Cry of Freedom" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

25,000 GI'S IN ARMY CUSTODY

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—More than 25,000 American soldiers are in U. S. Army custody around the world as prisoners for offenses ranging down from murder and desertion.

This means that one out of every 330 soldiers is a prisoner. More than 1,800 are in federal penitentiaries, more than 8,500 in disciplinary barracks which are really army penitentiaries, more than 7,700 are in rehabilitation centers, and 4,700 are prisoners overseas.

Their offenses—by army standards—would be felonies under civilian law.

In addition there are probably 20,000 soldiers held as prisoners in army camps or garrisons in this country and abroad. These men are being held for minor offenses.

The statistics are from Col. Marion Rushton, head of the army's correction division in an address before the Army and Navy club.

On its part, the board would try to keep the smaller adjustments within "stabilization limits" to forestall price increases.

BIG FORCE OF B29'S HIT JAPS

Twenty-First Bomber Command

Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 10 (AP)—A powerful force of B-29 Superfortresses—probably the largest ever to hit Japan—bombed Tokyo today in "rare good weather."

B-29 pilots returning home radioed that they had enjoyed "excellent results."

Tokyo broadcasts said "approximately 90" Superfortresses striking in five waves in the early afternoon (Japanese time) caused "some damage to ground installations."

Japanese announcers said the giant bombers began the attack at 1:30 Eastern War Time and continued dropping bombs and incendiaries on the area for an hour.

The raid, the 52nd Superfort attack on Japan was first announced by the 20th Airforce in Washington. The force making this strike was at least as large as any formation of B-29's ever sent over Honshu, main island of Japan, and probably was larger.

One of the most interesting and most significant developments of recent months is the progress made by the American Bankers' Association campaign to get bankers all over the country to wake up to the fact that from now on loans must be made on something other than a "government bond" basis. One immediate result of this campaign has been the formation in New York of a one hundred million dollar Small Business Loan fund. A similar fifty million dollar fund has been established in Chicago, and other pools are being developed in other places. Small town and country banks tie into these funds through their correspondent banks in the cities.

Loans are now being made by literally hundreds of banks which not over six months ago would have been turned down with a loud and resounding "No." Almost all the larger banks have set up or are organizing special small business loan departments and any business man who has a legitimate reason for borrowing money, and whose record shows that there is a reasonable expectation of his being able to repay the loan, can borrow what he needs on terms and conditions tailored to fit his particular requirements.

The U. S. Treasury department sold $13,264,703.12 worth of surplus property during the month of January. The items were mainly surplusages that were turned over to the Treasury department by the Army and Navy. The items included sheets and pillow cases, beds, slide fasteners, batteries, paper bags, skis, snow shoes, life rafts, mosquito nets, flashlights, bath robes, sand, shovels, school buses, tape, aprons, galvanized cans and other items.

WARNS AGAINST TOO OPTIMISTIC VIEWS ON WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

Success too often breeds over-confidence, and this is a good time for us to look at the string we tied on our finger to remind us that the present gratifying Allied progress in Europe doesn't necessarily mean victory is just around the corner, or that we shall reach it by any royal route.

We ought to recognize this from the fierce resistance the Muscovites are encountering among the defenses of the Oder river, and from the hard going the western Allies are finding in the inhospitable water-logged winter terrain of the Rhineland. The Germans are giving ground, and their resources in manpower and material are far from sufficient to carry on indefinitely—but there's bloody warfare ahead of us.

Yesterday this column discussed the possibility of the Big Three calling on the German people to desert Hitler. This naturally would involve the question of his hold on the public, and apropos of this I have here some striking observations by Veritas, British official military commentator.

"Calculated Policy"

Developing the thesis that the end won't be "either sudden or soon," Veritas points out that the plot to overthrow Hitler last summer provided Gestapo Chief Himmler—who now is in military control of the country—with the opportunity for which he had been waiting. Since then "terrible bloodbaths have been continuously in progress, and the victims have been drawn from all walks of life." He continues:

"How many thousands have been murdered may never be known. It has been learned from reliable sources that no less than thirty individuals are still being executed daily at Dortmund, and a comparable toll is evidently being taken in many other German cities. Even an anonymous denunciation to the effect that a person has expressed doubt as to the possibility of Germany's winning the war is sufficient to send the accused to the execution squads."

"It would be misunderstanding the situation to interpret this fearful massacre to the frantic efforts of a gang of desperadoes to terrorize a restive population on the verge of revolt. It is a calculated policy to eliminate every group and every individual who might be disposed to resist surrender to accepting the devastation of the country as the price for a fight to the last man."

Majority Are Nazis

"There is a considerable and very trustworthy body of evidence to show that the great mass of the German people now agree with Nazi propaganda that, since the surrender and total defeat alike involve the destruction of Germany, it is better to go on fighting and so preserve the idea of National Socialism for the future. To call this a mood of desperation would be to convey the wrong idea; x x x it is a cold, unemotional and passive acceptance of the doctrine (which it is death to dispute) that there is no alternative but to go on to the bitter end."

That's what we are up against—and it means a fight. However, it also should be noted that there are clear signs of discontent among some sections of the population, not all of whom have swallowed Nazism. There also is a great, though at present more or less passive, menace to national morale in the some 12,000,000 foreign slaves within Germany. Once Berlin falls and Himmler's picked military forces have to abandon the northern part of the Reich we are likely to see a radical change in civilian attitude.

highly resolved that the world shall have a new birth of freedom."

"We can see," Judge Sheely said, "that although the conditions have changed, the thought is the same."

"We have resolved that we shall have a new government of the people, by the people and for the people," the speaker stated, "and that is what we must do. Today as we look over the world it is pretty much in darkness. The world is looking for a place where persons of all races, creeds and colors can live in harmony."

"Such a place is the United States if we will dedicate ourselves to the proposition that all men are created equal and continue to carry out our resolutions."

Among those present in the audience was Edward A. Trostle, who heard Lincoln give his address here. Mr. Trostle made a few remarks.

During the program, music was furnished by a special quartet under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade, supervisor of music in the town schools. Members of the group were Mrs. Shade, Miss Sara Jane Sheffer, W. Kenton Meals and Paul Reaver, Jr. The quartet sang "Tenting On the Old Camp Ground," by Kitterage; "The American Hymn," Keller; "The Battle Cry of Freedom," Kout; "Stars of the Summer Night," by Woodbury, and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," by Lambert. Miss Sheffer sang solo parts in "The Battle Cry of Freedom" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

25,000 GI'S IN ARMY CUSTODY

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—More than 25,000 American soldiers are in U. S. Army custody around the world as prisoners for offenses ranging down from murder and desertion.

This means that one out of every 330 soldiers is a prisoner.

More than 1,800 are in federal penitentiaries, more than 8,500 in disciplinary barracks which are really army penitentiaries, more than 7,700 are in rehabilitation centers, and 4,790 are prisoners overseas.

Their offenses—by army standards—would be felonies under civilian law.

In addition there are probably 20,000 soldiers held as prisoners in army camps or garrisons in this country and abroad. These men are being held for minor offenses.

The statistics are from Col. Marion Rushton, head of the army's correction division in an address before the Army and Navy club.

Fish And Game Unit Will Sell Farm

A resolution authorizing the sale of the Adams County Fish and Game Association's farm was passed unanimously by the group at its regular monthly meeting held Friday evening in the basement of the First National bank building.

The association farm is located about two miles south of Gettysburg near the Littlestown road. The farm was described by members as being too far from town to provide easy access for club activities and members discussed the possibility of purchasing a club property nearer Gettysburg.

The club also passed a resolution to continue holding meetings in the bank building. A letter was read requesting that the club stock Middle creek with fish and was referred to the restocking committee. The meeting was well attended.

hannoverburg high school clinch the Southern division honors of South Penn basketball league day evening by defeating the Gettysburg high Maroons 37-28 in a game played at Chambersburg before an over-flow crowd.

The victory gave the Trojans the second straight divisional title and advances them into the play-off with Hershey, Northern division champions, for the South Penn title the second straight year. Last year the Trojans took the loop title and went on to gain the District 3 C before being eliminated by West Merion in the state PIAA tournament.

Coach "Hen" Bream's boys put up a valiant battle on the small Chambersburg court but fell apart in the final period to give the Trojans their victory.

Two Bad Rounds
The Maroons had two bad periods, the second and fourth in which they trailed but three and two points, respectively, and that tells the story.

Gettysburg scored first in the game as a goal by Ogden which was followed by one by C. Leshner. Hentzel netted a long shot to again put the Maroons ahead. Matching point the teams battled to a 9-9 tie at the end of the period.

The Trojans seemed headed toward an easy victory in the second round when they rolled up a 20-12 at half time, the Maroons only got into coming on a foul and goal by Koutis. Koutis, Howard, C. Leshner and D. Leshner contributed to the team's success.

Making a brilliant comeback in the third period the Bream-men played up around their opponents, went late in the period 24-23 and tied the quarter deadlocked at 26.

Ogden, Fidler, Hentzelman landed a pair of goals in the third and Hentzelman netted a single in the fourth. Chambersburg's tallies on goals by Howard and Koutis and fouls by C. Leshner and M. Leshner.

In the final period the Maroon attack broke down completely as hamburgers time and again intercepted passes to go down the floor score goals or to gain free tosses when the players were fouled. Ogden netted the Maroons' only goal with out a minute of play remaining.

Coach Fred Hentzelman's reserves are soundly trounced in the preliminary game 39-8.

The Maroons will play at Shipensburg Tuesday evening.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Owner Arthur McBride says Paul Brown got "the best deal ever given a football coach" when he signed with the Cleveland All-American Conference club and that must be really good.

When the Oklahoma U. basketball team played Oklahoma Aggies recently, Bruce Drake, O. U. coach, fitted Red Dinkins with stunts under his sweat pants and put a "7-1/2 foot cager" on display. But at the tipoff Harold Hines, 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches, opposed seven-foot Bob Kurland.

THE PLAIN TRUTH
Of all the stories about scribes who almost got that beat on the sale of the Yankees, the best concerns a couple of scribes who wandered into a downtown restaurant about two days before the story broke.

There having lunch were Larry McPhail, Ed Barrow, Tom Gallery of the football Tigers and a representative of the bank that handled the deal. Recognizing McPhail they asked: "What are you doing here?"

"Why, I'm buying the Yankees, of course," replied Larry. "Everybody laughed uproariously and the scribes departed. P. S.: It wasn't that eatery that's known for its output of sport scoops."

MEMORY TEST
Writing about the old-time ball players who have been overlooked in the listing for baseball's hall of fame, F. M. Brown, of Longview, Wash., asks how about Theo Breitenstein and Heinie Peitz—the "pretzel battery"—Tacks Parrott, Biddy McPhee, Arlie Latham, Dusty Miller and Hugs Halliday? They all played in Cincinnati in the early 80's and Brown maintains, "I never saw any players that were better considering the time they were in the field." Wonder how many others remember them?

CLEANING THE CUFF
The Clemson college basketball team sank 22 out of 27 foul shots against Presbyterian the other night and drummer Joe Sherman wants to know if any team can beat that average on 25 or more shots. Jimmy Johnston argues that people stand around theater lobbies between acts just as they do at the garden, "and they could bet on what time the curtain goes down." Fred Mally, peace-time sports editor of the San Antonio, Texas, News and Shepherd for Joe Louis on the champ's tours, has been promoted to major.

When the Norfolk Naval Air Station played basketball at the Bainbridge Naval training center the other night, nearly 5,000 sailors were turned away after 3,200 got in to set a new attendance record.

Herb Pennock Sees Close Pennant Race

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (AP)—Herb Pennock, general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, expects a "close, evenly balanced" race for the major league pennant this season.

Pennock, who observed his 51st birthday yesterday, says baseball "has the green light" and "everything seems to point to a successful year."

"I am sure all our clubs will be able to put teams on the field that will give fans the kind of competition they want."

Tilden Playing Tennis At 52

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The clock struck 52 for Big Bill Tilden today but the hardy perennial of the courts scarcely noticed—he was still too busy with his tennis.

The angular, aging but active ace apparently needs no more than several sets of tennis daily to keep him young. He averages at least five a day.

Greatest showman in the history of tennis, Tilden is the only remaining active member of the golden 20's which saw him, Babe Ruth, Bobby Jones, Tommy Hitchcock and sports.

Service Wrestlers To Close Contests

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP)—A closely contested all-service battle loomed today in the 41st annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association championships as New London, Conn., Coast Guard academy, Army and Navy moved into the semi-finals.

The Coast Guardsmen, competing for the first time, scored a surprise upset in yesterday's preliminaries by taking a one-point lead to edge out favored Army and defending Navy.

Despite the one-point lead by the Coast Guardsmen, Navy, defending champion, sent seven of its eight contenders to today's semi-finals, while Army placed five, Lehigh, 4; Penn and Penn State, 3 each; Cornell, 2; and Columbia and Princeton, 1 each.

Youth Confesses Woman's Slaying

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP)—A 20-year-old timber cutter whom state police said has made an oral confession admitting to the slaying of a young Navy wife was scheduled to be arraigned on a charge of murder.

Maj. William A. Clark of the state police and Lt. John A. Carr, commandant of the Wyoming state police barracks, identified the timber cutter as Raymond Melchiorchick, of nearby Red Rock, recently discharged from the Army.

Melchiorchick, state police said, was taken into custody as a suspect late Wednesday afternoon after the body of the woman, Mrs. Mary Ulozas, 29, wife of Seaman I/O Bernard Ulozas, now in the Pacific, was found partly disrobed, beaten and garroted in an isolated gully at nearby Plymouth earlier in the day.

CSC Will Decide About Wagner Case

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission will meet February 18 to determine whether it has jurisdiction to proceed with federal Hatch Act charges against Pennsylvania Treasurer G. Harold Wagner.

Counsel for the commission, Alfred Klein, said a hearing will be held in Harrisburg, Pa., on March 16, in the event that the commission decides it has jurisdiction in the matter.

Wagner has challenged the commission's authority to pursue charges that he required state Treasury employees to make political contributions. As an elected state official, Wagner claims exemption from the Hatch Act.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 10 (AP)—Their $20,000,000-a-year lottery temporarily suspended by a New York state exchange ruling listing total sales in round numbers, Pittsburgh numbers writers today sought a new "number" on which to play off.

Observers said some may turn to the U. S. Treasury balance; others plan to use figures in the advance and decline of stocks which still are reported daily.

Chambersburg high school clinched the Southern division honors of the South Penn basketball league Friday evening by defeating the Gettysburg high Maroons 37-28 in a game played at Chambersburg before an over-flow crowd.

The victory gave the Trojans their second straight divisional title and advances them into the play-off with Hershey, Northern division champions, for the South Penn title for the second straight year. Last year the Trojans took the loop title and went on to gain the District 3 title before being eliminated by Lower Merion in the state PIAA tournament.

Coach "Hen" Bream's boys put up a valiant battle on the small Chambersburg court but fell apart in the final period to give the Trojans their victory.

Two Bad Rounds
The Maroons had two bad periods, the second and fourth in which they tallied but three and two points, respectively, and that tells the story.

Gettysburg scored first in the game on a goal by Ogden which was followed by one by C. Lesher. Hentzelman netted a long shot to again put the Maroons ahead. Matching point for point the teams battled to a 9-9 deadlock at the end of the period.

The Trojans seemed headed toward an easy victory in the second period when they rolled up a 20-12 lead at half time, the Maroons only points coming on a foul and goal by Thrush. Koutris, Howard, C. Lesher and M. Leisher contributed to the Trojan cause.

Making a brilliant comeback in the third period the Bream-men played rings around their opponents, went ahead late in the period 24-23 and ended the quarter deadlocked at 26-26. Ogden, Fidler, Hentzelman each landed a pair of goals in the quarter and Eisenhart netted a single twin-pointer. Chambersburg's tallies came on goals by Howard and Koutris and fouls by C. Lesher and M. Leisher.

In the final period the Maroon attack broke down completely as Chambersburg time and again intercepted passes to go down the floor to score goals or to gain free tosses when the players were fouled. Ogden tallied the Maroons' only goal with about a minute of play remaining.

Coach Fred Hachlen's reserves were soundly trounced in the preliminary game 39-8.

The Maroons will play at Shippensburg Tuesday evening.

Tilden Playing Tennis At 52

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The clock struck 52 for Big Bill Tilden today but the hardy perennial of the courts scarcely noticed—he was still too busy with his tennis.

The angular, aging but active ace apparently needs no more than several sets of tennis daily to keep him young. He averages at least five a day.

Greatest showman in the history of tennis, Tilden is the only remaining active member of the golden 20's which saw him, Babe Ruth, Bobby Jones, Tommy Hitchcock and sports.

Consider Martin For Commissioner

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—United States Circuit Judge John D. Martin was reported today being considered for the position of commissioner of baseball by National League members of a four-man nominating committee.

Reached at his Cincinnati home, the judge, former president of the Southern Association, said, "I haven't heard of it and have had no communication from anyone about it."

Nazis Counterattack On Italian Front

Rome, Feb. 10 (AP)—The German have launched a counter attack in company strength against positions newly regained by the Fifth Army in the Serchio valley north of Galliano, Allied headquarters announced Friday.

The enemy counterattack began a few hundred yards north of the village of Burca and the official report said fighting still was in progress.

Brisk clashes were reported in other Fifth Army sectors, but on the whole there was no large scale action on the front.

Service Wrestlers To Close Contests

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP)—A closely contested all-service battle loomed today in the 41st annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association championships as New London, Conn., Coast Guard academy, Army and Navy moved into the semi-finals.

The Coast Guardsmen, competing for the first time, scored a surprise upset in yesterday's preliminaries by taking a one-point lead to edge out favored Army and defending Navy.

Despite the one-point lead by the Coast Guardsmen, Navy, defending champion, sent seven of its eight contenders to today's semi-finals, while Army placed five, Lehigh, 4; Penn and Penn State, 3 each; Cornell, 2; and Columbia and Princeton, 1 each.

EAST BERLIN HI DOUBLE VICTOR

East Berlin high's cagers copped both games from New Oxford in games played Friday evening at East Berlin.

After New Oxford led 18-16 at half time, East Berlin rallied for 18 points in the second period to eventually wind up a 44-32 victor. Wolf, with 15 points, and J. Haar, with 14, paced the attacks for their respective teams.

The East Berlin girls trailed for three periods but put on a big rally in the final period to gain a 28-25 decision in the preliminary game.

The games were the final of the year for New Oxford. The New Oxford boys won six and lost 10 while the girls won three and dropped seven.

Wonder what a truck driver thinks when the economy boys warn against jack-rabbit starts.

Keep Car Young

There are numerous new ways of remedying weaknesses in your car but you'll not be likely to know about them if you are a stranger to the service station. I've been picking up some new ideas lately and find, among other things, a special extension bolt for the distributor of one popular make. It takes up play in the distributor linkage, insures stable timing and thus better tune-up. Another new aid is a special oil pressure regulator which boosts pressure to compensate for worn cam shaft bearings. Particularly ingenious is a repair unit for keeping in service stretched or broken brake cables. You just loosen the cable, slip on the repair unit and draw the nut up tightly.

Special For Synthetics

There is quite a bit to repairing synthetic inner tubes, so don't assume you can afford to have anything but the best of tire service here. Experts say that cold patches and vulcanized repairs may be used successfully if the injury to the tube does not exceed a cut of one-half inch. On larger cuts only vulcanized repairs should be used. The risk is always that the tube may split out from the original cut.

In mending a synthetic tube cut around the hole to eliminate corners. Then, when a rounded edge is obtained, roughen the surface over an area larger than the patch that is used. In removing surface glaze it is important not to scratch into the tube. The cold patch can then be put over the buffer area and the cement worked in with the blade of a knife. The patch should extend about one inch beyond the edge of the cut, except where there is a mere puncture hole. In the latter case a ready-cut beveled patch is sufficient.

You may not have seen one in action but a lesser known gauge for use in servicing modern cars is a device to measure pressure at hydraulic brake lines. The line gauge tells exactly how much pressure is being transmitted to any one of the four lines from the master cylinder. Pressure may drop because of clogging, a pinch in the tube, leakage or excessive overheating of the line. In cases of unequalized braking it is important to have gauge evidence of actual variation in pressure since the tendency always is to place the blame on mechanical action in the brake assemblies.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"One of the amazing things about this business is the way motorists order piston rings as if it made no difference what kind of rings I installed so long as they are of good quality. I try my best but don't seem to be able to get over the idea that the selection of ring types depends on what the engine needs.

There isn't time here to go into all the details but just keep in mind that there are wide channeled rings, single ventilated rings, flexible rings, inner rings, compression rings, oil rings, to name a few of the majors. We don't guess at sizes, but measure the cylinders carefully. We find out just how the engine has been acting and know before we do the work just what it is we are trying to correct. That is why we so often rebore the cylinders or tell the owner that what he needs is a completely reconditioned engine—not just new rings."

When They Start Spinning

In trying to get away in the snow it is important to avoid spinning one or the other of the rear wheels, and remember that due to the differential they never spin simultaneously. In wet snow a spin is certain to polish the surface into an icy patch. If you can't get going in a forward direction, try backing. Do so gently, letting the clutch come up while feeding gas very slightly. While the car is still backing slip into low gear and start going forward. Failing to get traction your best bet is to sprinkle sand over the tires and on the snow ahead of and behind the rear tires. A couple of pieces of cardboard pushed as far under the tires as possible may also do the trick. Sand is sure. Carry a small bag with you in the car at all times.

For Want Of A Nail

It's the old story of the battle that was lost for want of a horseshoe nail. One of my readers whose car is equipped with automatic overdrive found that he could not get in to third speed after driving along in the higher of the two high gears. He stepped down on the accelerator pedal, but no shift was forthcoming. Naturally he assumed that the electric solenoid control had failed or that the gears of the overdrive were sticking. It did not take the service man long to note that the floor covering in the driving compartment had bunched into a slight hump around the accelerator pedal—just enough to prevent the pedal from going down far enough to bring the switch into action. I never could understand why anyone would be puzzled to know if gear noises generally occur when the car is under power or when the car is "pushing" the engine. Universals do not usually complain unless the car is under power. Tire noises usually hit a peak and remain constant. Needs More Gas. A record number of letters come (Please Turn to Page 5)

Just Folks
THE HIGH ROAD
How tell of all departed, good or bad
And who did best with what of life
he had?

One must be more than merely richly dressed
To live superbly under sorrow's test.

Faith and high courage, lest the spirit tire,
The storms of life are certain to require.

How come to these? For one and all,
the will
To keep the high road, facing good
or ill;

To trust to courage more than chance or luck;
To build a faith before the blow
is struck;

To win the friends, before the need
for aid,
Then to press on, serene and unafraid.

Today's Talk
ONE GOD, ONE FATHER, ONE FRIEND

A friend has presented me with one of the most beautiful, and I might say one of the most informative, books that I have had the privilege of reading in a long time. Its title is "One God," and its author is Florence Mary Fitch. The author has had a long and brilliant record as an educator and public servant.

In this book are illustrated and explained the various forms of worship by the many different classes of religious worshippers—Jewish, Catholic and Protestant. It is most informing, and the photographic illustrations are extraordinarily beautiful. But it was the general theme of the book that most appealed to me—One God.

I am a minister's son, and accordingly, over the years, have had the opportunity to experience contacts with all religions as practiced by the various sects and creeds. I am at home in any church, and it would be my wish that there would be but one church—the Church of God, that is, in name. Of course all churches worship but one God, but I wish that there would be no distinction of creed, or separate cult.

Dogma doesn't interest me. God the Father and Friend over all, to me seems quite sufficient. There is often bitter discussion among the various sects as to specific forms and beliefs. But this seems irrelevant to the one purpose of all religions, and that is, to worship the One God "in spirit and in truth" according to one's interpretation of God. I have no quarrel with any form, so long as it is sincere and so long as it is loyal to the One God over us all.

The God, as explained in both Old and New Testaments, is the same God, and it is to Him that we open our hearts and give to Him the full worship of our hearts. I like the name of Father, and Friend—for that is what God is to us all. I don't think it matters how we worship so long as we worship honestly and in full faith. It is the same God to us all "from whom all blessings flow."

Another Drop in TIRE QUOTAS

For the second consecutive month there has been a drop in the number of passenger car tires available to essential motorists. The national total is 200,000 less for February than were January quotas—400,000 less than the number available in December. There can be no question in your mind that the tire situation is critical. More tires are going to the armed forces. That means fewer tires for civilians. Never was tire conservation more urgent than now.

Here Is the Story Direct from Washington:

"Tire quotas for the current month are reduced sharply from last month. These reductions again point up the fact that maximum use of tires now on wheels through conservation and prompt recapping is the only practical solution of the present tire problem. The plain fact is that the demands of General Eisenhower and General MacArthur are receiving first consideration by WPB in the allocation of tires. This is right and proper. To civilian vehicle operators, I can only say this: Your help is needed! The way you can help yourself and the war effort is to have your tires recapped promptly, before they are worn beyond the recapping stage."

New Revision Of Bible Completed

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The first authorized protestant revision of the Bible in nearly a half-century was completed and in publishers' hands today with the probability that the New Testament will be ready by Christmas.

Report of completion of the revision, to be published under sponsorship of 44 Protestant denominations, was made yesterday by Dean Luther A. Weigle, of Yale Divinity school.

Dean Weigle said the revision "used straightforward English based on the King James and American standard editions," and that pronunciation aids would be used only for more unusual words.

How Does the New Quota Affect Motorists Locally?

Here Is the Bare, Unvarnished Picture for Adams County

FOR MOTORISTS - - -

The Number of Passenger Cars Registered Is 9,221
The Quota of Passenger Car Tires Is 422

Not a very promising picture. Certainly there is little chance for even essential "B" and "C" card holders to get sufficient tires. There is only ONE sure way to keep driving—and that is by taking special care of the tires now on your wheels. Have them inspected regularly. Make repairs promptly. Keep them properly inflated. And by all means RECAP IN TIME — at the first sign of the tread being worn smooth. Further driving is dangerous and may damage the casing beyond the recapping stage. Do your share. We'll do ours.

AND FOR TRUCK OPERATORS - - -

The Number of Trucks Registered Is 1,400
The Number of Tires Available This Month Has Been Reduced Considerably

That means that truck operators in this area must practice every means of tire conservation to assure continuance of their important services. We offer every possible cooperation to truck owners—to reduce operating costs—to secure all mileage from present tires and assure safe travel. Trucks must run. Owners must realize that tires are scarce and that there is little hope for early improvement.

Keep Car Young

There are numerous new ways of remedying weaknesses in your car but you'll not be likely to know about them if you are a stranger to the service station. I've been picking up some new ideas lately and find, among other things, a special extension bolt for the distributor of one popular make. It takes up play in the distributor linkage, insures stable timing and thus better tune-up. Another new aid is a special oil pressure regulator which boosts pressure to compensate for worn cam shaft bearings. Particularly ingenious is a repair unit for keeping in service stretched or broken brake cables. You just loosen the cable, slip on the repair unit and draw the nut up tightly.

Special For Synthetics

There is quite a bit to repairing synthetic inner tubes, so don't assume you can afford to have anything but the best of tire service here. Experts say that cold patches and vulcanized repairs may be used successfully if the injury to the tube does not exceed a cut of one-half inch. On larger cuts only vulcanized repairs should be used. The risk is always that the tube may split out from the original cut.

In mending a synthetic tube cut around the hole to eliminate corners. Then, when a rounded edge is obtained, roughen the surface over an area larger than the patch that is used. In removing surface glaze it is important not to scratch into the tube. The cold patch can then be put over the buffer area and the cement worked in with the blade of a knife. The patch should extend about one inch beyond the edge of the cut, except where there is a mere puncture hole. In the latter case a ready-cut beveled patch is sufficient.

You may not have seen one in action but a lesser known gauge for use in servicing modern cars is a device to measure pressure at hydraulic brake lines. The line gauge tells exactly how much pressure is being transmitted to any one of the four lines from the master cylinder. Pressure may drop because of clogging, a pinch in the tube, leakage or excessive overheating of the line. In cases of unequalized braking it is important to have gauge evidence of actual variation in pressure since the tendency always is to place the blame on mechanical action in the brake assemblies.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"One of the amazing things about this business is the way motorists order piston rings as if it made no difference what kind of rings I installed so long as they are of good quality. I try my best but don't seem to be able to get over the idea that the selection of ring types depends on what the engine needs."

"There isn't time here to go into all the details but just keep in mind that there are wide channeled rings, single ventilated rings, flexible rings, inner rings, compression rings, oil rings, to name a few of the majors. We don't guess at sizes, but measure the cylinders carefully. We find out just how the engine has been acting and know before we do the work just what it is we are trying to correct. That is why we so often rebore the cylinders or tell the owner that what he needs is a completely reconditioned engine—not just new rings."

When They Start Spinning

In trying to get away in the snow it is important to avoid spinning one or the other of the rear wheels, and remember that due to the differential they never spin simultaneously. In wet snow a spin is certain to polish the surface into an icy patch. If you can't get going in a forward direction, try backing. Do so gently, letting the clutch come up while feeding gas very slightly. While the car is still backing slip into low gear and start going forward. Failing to get traction your best bet is to sprinkle sand over the tires and on the snow ahead of and behind the rear tires. A couple of pieces of cardboard pushed as far under the tires as possible may also do the trick. Sand is surer. Carry a small bag with you in the car at all times.

For Want Of A Nail

It's the old story of the battle that was lost for want of a horseshoe nail. One of my readers whose car is equipped with automatic over-

drive found that he could not get into third speed after driving along in the higher of the two high gears. He stepped down on the accelerator pedal, but no shift was forthcoming. Naturally he assumed that the electric solenoid control had failed or that the gears of the overdrive were sticking. It did not take the service man long to note that the floor covering in the driving compartment had bunched into a slight hump around the accelerator pedal —just enough to prevent the pedal from going down far enough to bring the switch into action.

I never could understand why anyone would be puzzled to know if gear noises generally occur when the car is under power or when the car is "pushing" the engine. Universals available. Just get up speed on a quiet street, depress the clutch pedal and switch off the engine. If the car is still in high gear any grinding or squealing is very likely due to the transmission. Another Drop in TIRE QUOTAS

For the second consecutive month there has been a drop in the number of passenger car tires available to essential motorists. The national total is 200,000 less for February than were January quotas—400,000 less than the number available in December. There can be no question in your mind that the tire situation is critical. More tires are going to the armed forces. That means fewer tires for civilians. Never was tire conservation more urgent than now.

Here Is the Story Direct from Washington:

"Tire quotas for the current month are reduced sharply from last month. These reductions again point up the fact that maximum use of tires now on wheels through conservation and prompt recapping is the only practical solution of the present tire problem. The plain fact is that the demands of General Eisenhower and General MacArthur are receiving first consideration by WPB in the allocation of tires. This is right and proper. To civilian vehicle operators, I can only say this: Your help is needed! The way you can help yourself and the war effort is to have your tires recapped promptly, before they are worn beyond the recapping stage."

MAX McCULLOUGH
Deputy Administrator for Rationing
Office of Price Administration

How Does the New Quota Affect Motorists Locally?

Here Is the Bare, Unvarnished Picture for Adams County
FOR MOTORISTS - - -

The Number of Passenger Cars Registered Is 9,221
The Quota of Passenger Car Tires Is 422

Not a very promising picture. Certainly there is little chance for even essential "B" and "C" card holders to get sufficient tires. There is only ONE sure way to keep driving—and that is by taking special care of the tires now on your wheels. Have them inspected regularly. Make repairs promptly. Keep them properly inflated. And by all means RECAP IN TIME — at the first sign of the tread being worn smooth. Further driving is dangerous and may damage the casing beyond the recapping stage. Do your share. We'll do ours.

AND FOR TRUCK OPERATORS - - -

The Number of Trucks Registered Is 1,400
The Number of Tires Available This Month
Has Been Reduced Considerably

That means that truck operators in this area must practice every means of tire conservation to assure continuance of their important services. We offer every possible cooperation to truck owners—to reduce operating costs—to secure all mileage from present tires and assure safe travel. Trucks must run. Owners must realize that tires are scarce and that there is little hope for early improvement.

THE HIGH ROAD

Tow tell of all departed, good or bad
and who did best with what of life
he had?

One must be more than merely richly dressed

To live superbly under sorrow's test.

Faith and high courage, lest the spirit tire,
The storms of life are certain to require.

How come to these? For one and all,
the will
To keep the high road, facing good
or ill;

To trust to courage more than
chance or luck;
To build a faith before the blow
is struck;

To win the friends, before the need
for aid.
Then to press on, serene and unafraid.

Today's Talk

ONE GOD, ONE FATHER,
ONE FRIEND

A friend has presented me with one of the most beautiful, and I might say one of the most informative, books that I have had the privilege of reading in a long time. Its title is "One God," and its author is Florence Mary Pitch. The author has had a long and brilliant record as an educator and public servant. In this book are illustrated and explained the various forms of worship by the many different classes of religious worshippers—Jewish, Catholic and Protestant. It is most informing, and the photographic illustrations are extraordinarily beautiful. But it was the general theme of the book that most appealed to me—One God.

I am a minister's son, and accordingly, over the years, have had the opportunity to experience contacts with all religions as practiced by the various sects and creeds. I am at home in any church, and it would be my wish that there would be but one church—the Church of God, that is, in name. Of course all churches worship but one God, but I wish that there would be no distinction of creed, or separate cult. Dogma doesn't interest me. God the Father and Friend over all, to me seems quite sufficient. There is often bitter discussion among the various sects as to specific forms and beliefs. But this seems irrelevant to the one purpose of all religions, and that is, to worship the One God "in spirit and in truth" according to one's interpretation of God. I have no quarrel with any form, so long as it is sincere and so long as it is loyal to the One God over us all.

The God, as explained in both Old and New Testaments, is the same God, and it is to Him that we open our hearts and give to Him the full worship of our hearts. I like the name of Father, and Friend—for that is what God is to us all. I don't think it matters how we worship so long as we worship honestly and in full faith. It is the same God to us all "from whom all blessings flow."

New Revision Of Bible Completed
Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The first authorized protestant revision of the Bible in nearly a half-century was completed and in publishers' hands today with the probability that the New Testament will be ready by Christmas.

Report of completion of the revision, to be published under sponsorship of 44 Protestant denominations, was made yesterday by Dean Luther A. Weigle, of Yale Divinity school.

Dean Weigle said the revision "used straightforward English based on the King James and American standard editions," and that pronunciation aids would be used only for more unusual words.

Flood Danger Not Imminent In Penna.

Harrisburg, Feb. 10 (AP)—L. F. Conover, officer in charge of the federal-state flood forecasting service, said Friday that conditions in the Susquehanna river watershed are "not unfavorable and a flood danger is not imminent."

The weather in the past few days, Conover said, has been "highly favorable" with much of the snow melting and running off during the day and then being checked by declining temperatures overnight. Such a condition reduces flood threats, Conover said.

"It would take a long period of time with extended high temperatures, ranging from 40 and 45 degrees, to produce an inch of water over the entire basin and five inches would be required for a bad flood."

ing to this department complain of the engine's tendency to die when the accelerator pedal is pressed to the floor sharply. One reader describes the effect as suggestive of the engine suddenly being fed water. Another points out that this condition is observable whether the engine is hot or cold. Another driver whose car is equipped with a hand choke notices that with a partial choke the engine will accelerate more normally. Yet there is no popping back through the carburetor to suggest an excessively lean mixture.

Putting the pieces together I am inclined to believe that the trouble is due to need for rebuilding the acceleration pump of the carburetor. Some pumps also have an adjustable arm so as to provide a longer stroke for winter, especially with the present low grade fuel we are getting.

Check Brakes Too

It never occurs to most motorists that when they have the tires switched around they are changing the braking effect by what may amount to a very poor redistribution of tread traction. Just because the brakes are actuated by fluid is no reason to overlook the fact that there is much mechanical action in the individual brake assemblies and that a re-check on brake shoe clearances would be in order. Be especially careful to check for weak shoe retractor springs on those assemblies where the tire treads have been showing signs of extra wear.

Q. Whenever I stop the car for parking I can hear the alcohol antifreeze boiling in the radiator, but the engine does not seem to run hot when the car is operating. Of course I also lose antifreeze out the overflow when parking. What's wrong?—C. N. N.

A. This is known as "after boil." Probably you are parking at an angle to the curb, with the radiator lower than the rear of the car. Coolant then surges forward and spills out. I'd try to park on the level, and also don't carry so much coolant in the radiator. The engine is, however, running too hot, so get after it and try to put it in more efficient condition.

Q. Is it true that more water is likely to get into the gas tank if the fuel level is low?—G. McB.

A. There is more metal to act as area for condensation when the tank level is low. In winter a full tank of gas has the added advantage of providing a little better traction through more weight on the rear wheels.

Q. I am having a complete motor overhaul done on my car. This will, of course, restore compression to normal again and I am wondering if I am going to have excessive ping. Should I install two head gaskets to drop compression to match the present low octane gas?—Wm. L. M.

A. I would rather set the ignition timing back a little. You may find that because the cylinders are cleared of carbon the increase in compression will not be as high as you might expect, even though the engine will be much more efficient with the new rings, pistons and tight valves. Try it with the regular gas-let first.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

How To Grow Perennial Phlox

Phlox is one of the most desirable of hardy perennials. Plants may be started from seed, rooted specimens may be purchased and set out in the spring, or old clumps may be divided for replanting and multiplication. Every flower grower should have a copy of our phlox growing instructions for adding this fine ornamental to the home grounds. Please enclose a 3-cent stamp with name and address written plainly in the lines below. Include all the flower growing questions desired. They will be gladly answered by return mail.

Stage A Late Winter Clean-Up

Numerous destructive insect foes and dangerous plant diseases find over-winter harbors in the lawn and garden. To know what these menaces are and where they lurk from one growing season to the next is to gain a powerful advantage of control. One of the most effective times of the year to wage war of total extinction against these dangers is in late winter; one of the most potent weapons is a careful clean-up and bonfire.

In the home grounds all dead refuse, such as leaves and old stalks, should be gathered from the iris bed and burned as soon as possible in order to destroy eggs of the deadly iris stalk-borer. If debris of peonies, snapdragons, dahlias or other annuals and perennials attacked by stalk borers or infected by mildew or rust remains, add these to the fire. The same advice applies to scale infested branches pruned from lilacs.

Of course, vegetation known to be safe from such dangers should be saved and utilized on the compost heap. In these times when so many lawn and garden soils lack organic matter and are hard or shallow, no safe vegetation should be burned. It should be turned into valuable compost.

Leaves left over winter near grape vines, also broken branches and unminuted fruits, should be gathered and plowed or spaded under deeply before spring or burned. Usually if such debris is turned under deeply around grape vines before foliage appears, the dangers will be eliminated and the added humus will greatly benefit the soil.

Meddling of Madrick
 BY TOM WEST

YESTERDAY: O'Shane is ready for the showdown with Wacker, but a blonde dancer gives the alarm. Trying to force his way out the back door of the dance hall, he is met by gunfire. Backtracking, he starts to go out the front door when his way is blocked by the Marshal, who orders him to surrender for the murder of Tom Curran.

Chapter 11
 The redhead's face was an expressionless mask, his right arm was crooked above his holster. "You ain't arresting me, Parker," his voice was bleak. "I'm accusing," said Parker. "Go for your gun!" grated O'Shane. As he spoke his hand slapped leather.

The Marshal's hand swept down and up. Before he could thumb the hammer, a streak of fire spurted from the redhead's side. Parker's bravado arm jerked back and his 45 clattered to the floor.

The fugitive spun round. His smoking iron pivoted from left to right as he backed towards the door. O'Shane felt the swinging door at his back. Focused by a hundred eyes he eased through, backwards — and felt the harsh pressure of a gun barrel between his shoulder blades.

"Drop that iron!" came Wacker's curt command. "Stretch!" O'Shane's arms reluctantly moved ceilingwards; the dance hall owner adroitly twisted the 45 out of his hand.

Tension relaxed, sound cascaded from the throng of onlookers. The Marshal broke through the crowd. "March!" he grunted to O'Shane.

"I'll trail along," volunteered Wacker. "This Jasper is as slippery as a rattler."

Silas dogging their footsteps, the two clumped along the plank walk in the direction of the jail, a square adobe structure on the rear of the Marshal's two-room office and living quarters.

"Sorry I had to wing you," said O'Shane, as their footsteps echoed hollowly on the planks, "but that coyote," his head jerked backwards, "framed me for Curran's murder. I was hunting him, figured I'd hammer the truth out of the stinker."

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The high, wide and handsome adventures of a streamlined social registerite who causes considerable eyebrow-lifting in Washington's upper crust when she "middle-classes it" with a roving cowboy from the western plains is both humorously and dramatically unfolded in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Cowboy and the Lady," co-starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon, which is scheduled for its showing at the Majestic Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

Supporting Cooper as the bronzed he-man from the sage-dotted hills and Miss Oberon as the madcap modern who takes her romance next, is a hand-picked cast headed by Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan, Mabel Todd and Fuzzy Knight.

WEDNESDAY

Laughing, love and lifting times are in the offing for film fans, promised by Universal's "Babes on Swing Street," which is due next Wednesday at the Majestic theatre, with a song-and-dance cast headed by Peggy Ryan, Ann Blyth, Marion Hutton and Freddie Slack and his orchestra.

The stars are supported by Leon Errol, Andy Devine, June Preisser, Kirby Grant, Anne Gwynne and Alma Kruger, all of whom are said to give highly entertaining performances.

THURSDAY

"Stagecoach," the spectacular frontier drama produced by Walter Wanger, which plays at the Majestic theatre Thursday thru United Artists release, unfolds a gripping story of pioneer courage, showing the brilliant heritage that has descended to young Americans from men who fought to hew a nation of the wilderness. It is a saga of brave women who went along with them to bring comfort and love to lonely outposts.

The strange group of passengers thrown together in the coach as it proceeds fearlessly on its way from Tonto, Arizona, to Lordsburg, New Mexico, are Clair Trevor and John Wayne, the co-stars of the film, Thomas Mitchell, Andy Devine, George Bancroft, Louise Platt, John Carradine, Beiton Churchill and Donald Meek.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Bob Hope in a scene from his latest picture, "The Princess and the Pirate."

A timorous actor's hilarious adventures in the glamorous days of the Spanish Main are the basis of "The Princess and the Pirate," Samuel Goldwyn's gay new Technicolor comedy for RKO Radio release.

Bob Hope has the starring role as the fearful thespian who is plunged into one desperate situation after another, and Goldwyn's new find, lovely Virginia Mayo, has the feminine lead as a runaway princess who complicates his life when they are captured by a band of buccaneers led by the bloodthirsty Hook.

Baldy came along to see how he was doing. His head snapped

OVER 11 MILLION PINTS OF BLOOD GATHERED BY RC

In 21 visits to Gettysburg the Red Cross Blood Donor Service unit from Harrisburg collected 2,579 pints of blood. The next Donor Day here is Monday, February 19.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10—Exceeding its quota for the fourth straight year, the American Red Cross Blood Donor Service in 1944 procured 5,371,664 pints of blood for the armed forces or 371,664 pints more than their estimated requirements, it was announced Friday by Basil O'Connor, Red Cross national chairman.

The 1944 record represents an average of ten pints of blood a minute day and night through the year and brings to 11,024,015 pints the total amount procured since the inception of the project in February, 1941. Mr. O'Connor stated, he said that the Army and Navy have requested the Red Cross to collect 5,000,000 pints this year.

Hailing the four-year record as an "outstanding testimonial to the determination of the American public to back up the men overseas," Chairman O'Connor said that 31 centers and 43 mobile units are participating in the program and called on the people in those communities to continue their support of the project.

Over The Top Each Time

"Despite this magnificent record we must not let down," he said. "The drain on supplies is enormous and numerous cases have been reported in which twenty or more pints of plasma have been required to save one man. We must obtain approximately 100,000 additional pints of blood every week to keep the armed forces fully supplied."

Pointing out that February marks the fourth anniversary of the inauguration of the service, Chairman O'Connor said that the program has been expanded systematically to meet increasing Army-Navy needs.

"In 1941, we procured 48,504 pints," Mr. O'Connor added. "In 1942, 1,321,659. In 1943, 4,282,186. Each of these figures, as was the

Well, he'd watch those stars, if he sat there until sunup.

For an hour O'Shane figured he said looking up at the window.

"Look, I can see the stars!" she exclaimed with delight. But her eyes were on O'Shane and her right eye dropped significantly. "They can be so helpful."

After she left, O'Shane, puzzled, sat on the bed. Study the stars? back as the muzzle of the 32 protruded, not six inches from his bony nose.

"Open this door or I'll scatter your brains, pronto," rasped O'Shane.

Gaping at the gun barrel, the deputy slowly opened the door.

Lifting Baldy's 45 he slipped the little 32 into his waistband and forced the deputy into the cell. Then he picked up his gunbelt hung on the wall, tossed Baldy's iron into the wastebasket and stepped out on the plank walk.

Square jaw set, O'Shane stepped briskly in the direction of the dance hall. He had a score to settle with Silas Wacker.

Stage A Late Winter Clean-Up

Numerous destructive insect foes and dangerous plant diseases find over-winter harbors in the lawn and garden. To know what these menaces are and where they lurk from one growing season to the next is to gain a powerful advantage of control. One of the most effective times of the year to wage war of total extinction against these dangers is in late winter; one of the most potent weapons is a careful clean-up and bonfire.

In the home grounds all dead refuse, such as leaves and old stalks, should be gathered from the iris bed and burned as soon as possible in order to destroy eggs of the deadly iris stalk borer, 44 debris of peonies, snapdragons, dahlias or other annuals and perennials attacked by stalk borers or infected by mildew or rust remains, add these to the fire. The same advice applies to scale infested branches pruned from lilacs.

Of course, vegetation known to be safe from such dangers should be saved and utilized on the compost heap. In these times when so many lawn and garden soils lack organic matter and are hard or shallow, no safe vegetation should be burned. It should be turned into valuable compost.

Leaves left over winter near grape vines, also broken branches and mummified fruits, should be gathered and plowed or spaded under deeply before spring or burned. Usually if such debris is turned under deeply around grape vines before foliage appears, the dangers will be eliminated and the added humus will greatly benefit the soil.

YESTERDAY: O'Shane is ready for the showdown with Wacker, but a blonde dancer gives the alarm. Trying to force his way out the back door of the dance hall, he is met by gunfire. Backtracking, he starts to go out the front door when his way is blocked by the Marshal, who orders him to surrender for the murder of Tom Curran.

Chapter 11
The redhead's face was an expressionless mask, his right arm was crooked above his holster. "You ain't arresting me, Parker," his voice was bleak. "I'm accusing," said Parker. "Go for your gun!" grated O'Shane. As he spoke his hand slapped leather. The Marshal's hand swept down and up. Before he could thumb the hammer, a streak of fire spurted from the redhead's side. Parker's brawny arm jerked back and his 45 clattered to the floor. The fugitive spun round. His smoking iron pivoted from left to right as he backed towards the door. O'Shane felt the swinging door at his back. Focused by a hundred eyes he eased through, backwards—and felt the harsh pressure of a gun barrel between his shoulder blades. "Drop that iron!" came Wacker's curt command. "Stretch!" O'Shane's arms reluctantly moved ceilingwards; the dance hall owner adroitly twisted the 45 out of his hand. Tension relaxed, sound cascaded from the throng of onlookers. The Marshal broke through the crowd. "March!" he grunted to O'Shane. "I'll trail along," volunteered Wacker. "This jasper is as slippery as a rattler." Silas dogging their footsteps, the two clumped along the plank walk in the direction of the jail, a square adobe structure on the rear of the Marshal's two-room office and living quarters. "Sorry I had to gimp you," said O'Shane, as their footsteps echoed hollowly on the planks, "but that coyote," his head jerked backwards, "framed me for Curran's murder. I was hunting him, figured I'd hammer the truth out of the stinker." "Forget it," returned Parker.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The high, wide and handsome adventures of a streamlined social register who causes considerable eyebrow-lifting in Washington's upper crust when she "middle-ages it" with a roving cowboy from the western plains is both humorously and dramatically unfolded in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Cowboy and the Lady," co-starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon, which is scheduled for its showing at the Majestic Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

Supporting Cooper as the bronzed he-man from the sage-dotted hills and Miss Oberon as the madcap modern who takes her romance neat, is a hand-picked cast headed by Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan, Mabel Todd and Fuzzy Knight.

WEDNESDAY

Laughter, love and lifting times are in the offing for film fans, promised by Universal's "Babes on Swing Street," which is due next Wednesday at the Majestic theatre, with a song-and-dance cast headed by Peggy Ryan, Ann Blyth, Marion Hutton and Freddie Slack and his orchestra.

The stars are supported by Leon Errol, Andy Devine, June Preisler, Kirby Grant, Anne Gwynne and Alma Kruger, all of whom are said to give highly entertaining performances.

THURSDAY

"Stagecoach," the spectacular frontier drama produced by Walter Wanger, which plays at the Majestic theatre Thursday thru United Artists release, unfolds a gripping story of pioneer courage, showing the brilliant heritage that has descended to young Americans from men who fought to hew a nation of the wilderness. It is a saga of brave women who went along with them to bring comfort and love to lonely outposts.

The strange group of passengers thrown together in the coach as it proceeds fearlessly on its way from Tonto, Arizona, to Lordsburg, New Mexico, are Clair Trevor and John Wayne, the co-stars of the film, Thomas Mitchell, Andy Devine, George Bancroft, Louise Platt, John Carradine, Bertone Churchill and Donald Meek.

A timorous actor's hilarious adventures in the glamorous days of the Spanish Main are the basis of "The Princess and the Pirate," Samuel Goldwyn's gay new Technicolor comedy for RKO Radio release.

Bob Hope has the starring role as the fearful thespian who is plucked into one desperate situation after another, and Goldwyn's new find, lovely Virginia Mayo, has the feminine lead as a runaway princess who complicates his life when they are captured by a band of buccaners led by the bloodthirsty Hook.

OVER 11 MILLION PINTS OF BLOOD GATHERED BY RC

In 21 visits to Gettysburg the Red Cross Blood Donor Service unit from Harrisburg collected 2,579 pints of blood. The next Donor Day here is Monday, February 19.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10—Exceeding its quota for the fourth straight year, the American Red Cross Blood Donor Service in 1944 procured 5,371,664 pints of blood for the armed forces or 371,664 pints more than their estimated requirements, it was announced Friday by Basil O'Connor, Red Cross national chairman.

The 1944 record represents an average of ten pints of blood a minute day and night through the year and brings to 11,024,015 pints the total amount procured since the inception of the project in February, 1941. Mr. O'Connor stated. He said that the Army and Navy have requested the Red Cross to collect 5,000,000 pints this year.

Hailing the four-year record as an "outstanding testimonial to the determination of the American public to back up the men overseas," Chairman O'Connor said that 31 centers and 43 mobile units are participating in the program and called on the people in those communities to continue their support of the project.

Over The Top Each Time

"Despite this magnificent record we must not let down," he said. "The drain on supplies is enormous and numerous cases have been reported in which twenty or more pints of plasma have been required to save one man. We must obtain approximately 100,000 additional pints of blood every week to keep the armed forces fully supplied."

Pointing out that February marks the fourth anniversary of the inauguration of the service, Chairman O'Connor said that the program has been expanded systematically to meet increasing Army-Navy needs.

"In 1941, we procured 48,504 pints," Mr. O'Connor added. "In 1942, 1,321,659. In 1943, 4,282,188. Each of these figures, as was the
